

Time Personification Poem

If you use me wisely you shall have more of me,
But if you lose track of me I'll come back to bite you.
I cannot be touched but you can always sense me and have a sense of me.
I control everything and everything revolves around me.
I'm the one true killer and the one true healer.
I am forever changing, constantly and inevitably.
I can fly without ever lifting off the ground.
I'm completely harmless until I catch up with you.
You can measure me, but not with a ruler or scales.
Everyone misses me and yet I am hated the most.
I don't like to be held onto.
I can kill even the most powerful of men.
No one knows what will happen to me when I get old, will I die? Was I ever born?
People say that they don't have me,
But they're always lying.
All of the great things take me.
I am time.

Will H

Time Personification Poem

I am the continuous passage of existence,
Where future becomes present and present becomes past.
I am the duration of human existence.
When you seek me, I am not there.
When you wish me gone, I'm everywhere.
I am stronger than anyone, for I'm unstoppable
Yet, I'm weaker than a memory for I am irretrievable.

I exist, and yet I've never been alive
But I live because I cannot die.
Consider your life: a photograph,
Than I am your frame.
You should never trust me because I'll make you forget,
Use me wisely, and you will be honoured
But use me ignorantly, and it's to your distress.

I am often undervalued and misused,
I am worth nothing and so, abused.
Yet I am worth so much more than pound or penny,
If only you knew, you might change your ways
Waste me and I'll waste you.
I am time.

Angus W-G